California Consulting Group Rated Top 5% Nationally

TORRANCE, CA – Results announced in June 2007 show that California Manufacturing Technology Consulting™ (CMTC) is now in the top 5% nationally in customer satisfaction. The results are from a national survey conducted quarterly by the National Institute of Standards in Washington, D.C.

“We are very pleased that a 3rd party survey of over 1,000 companies receiving consulting services from the 60 Hollings Manufacturing Extension Partnership organizations throughout the nation would place CMTC in the top 5%”, stated David Braunstein, CMTC’s President and CEO.

CMTC, alone, had over 90 customers surveyed, with an 85% survey response. All of the customer consulting projects surveyed were completed one year earlier, allowing full assessment by each of the companies of the financial benefits derived from the consulting services.

CMTC is a full service not-for-profit consulting firm, with a mission to provide consulting services for key California industries to meet world-class competition. “We believe our very unique status and mission in consulting gives us a special advantage in satisfying our customers”. “When you don’t have owners hounding you for quarterly profits, you have the capability to truly put the customer first. I am delighted with the high regard in which our customers hold us.” concluded Mr. Braunstein.

The CMTC consulting group was formed 15 years ago, with consultants working locally with hundreds of companies in communities from Fresno to San Diego. CMTC has seasoned experts, and offers both management and production improvement consulting. Services are provided to small manufacturers, as well as mid-to-larger production companies engaged in automotive, aerospace and defense, consumer, food and industrial products.
