

“Ontario Small Business Supports Texas Disaster Relief Efforts”

In addition to the pandemic, in August 2020 Texas was devastated by hurricane Laura and Marco which left thousands of families displaced without access to hygienic necessities. Even now, many families are still suffering the effects from the disaster.

With thousands still displaced from their original homes, families have been utilizing communal showers and laundry sites to care for their basic hygienic needs. Ultra Chem Labs, a small family-owned business manufacturing out of Ontario, CA saw this as an opportunity to give of what they do best. By providing cleaning and protection products to help make life a little bit easier for those in need.

Their first shipment consisted of 1468 gallons of detergent and softener. This would yield 92,160 ounces and would clean 1.8 million lbs. of laundry for those in the community.

"Our heart breaks for all of those suffering in Texas due to the natural disasters. We wanted to make clear that no matter how much or how little, small businesses from all over can help make life a little easier for those in need," says Ben Shieh, brand representative at Ultra Chem Labs.

Many organizations like the #ADRN (Austin disaster relief network) have made themselves available as a conduit for help.
